This report provides an overview of statistics for both the Group Exercise Instructor (GEI) and Personal Trainer (CPT) certification examinations administered by the National Exercise Trainers Association – Certification Board (NETA-CB) from January 1 to December 31, 2022. The examinations presented in this report were administered in a number of locations throughout the United States at different times throughout 2022. The data from these administrations have been combined and serve as the basis for the statistics appearing in this report.

The GEI and CPT certification examinations were administered via computer-based testing (CBT) and paper-based testing (PBT) formats. Paper-based exams were administered to groups of candidates by an approved independent proctor. Computer-based exams were administered to individual candidates via live remote online proctoring services provided by ProctorU.

Table 1 summarizes the statistics for all GEI and CPT examinations administered in 2022. Statistical reporting of the passing score, pass rate, and average score are based solely on candidates' responses to the 100 scored items appearing on each form of the exam. Additional data including standard deviation, standard error of measurement, decision consistency, and reliability estimate are available upon request.
